ANGELINA; OR,
THE LIFE OF A BEAUTY.

By the Author of "The Henpecked Husband," "Putting on Airs," &c., &c.

The clever authoress of "Putting on Airs," or, "A Warning to Wives," has been more than usually happy with her romantic combinations and sentimental personifications in the "LIFE OF A BEAUTY." The narrative is developed with exceeding taste, and the work has the peculiar charm of combining two different romances, the first embracing the career of a spoiled mother, and the second that of a spoiled child.
Angelina is a faithful type of the latter of fashionable life, and her mother an example of all the mischievous effects of a false education. The authoress of "A Warning to Wives" might well have named this work "A Lesson to Beauties."—[Ex-

WE WILL PUBLISH
WEDNESDAY, Nov. 8,
SHERMAN'S MARCH THROUGH THE SOUTH, WITH SKETCHES AND INCIDENTS OF HIS CAMPAIGNS.
By Capt. DAVID C. CONYNGHAM,
Of the New York Herald.

One vol., 12mo. Price $1.75.
This is the only and complete account of Sherman's march through the South, from the time of his assuming command of the Army of the West to the final surrender of Johnston.
It contains vivid descriptions of all the battles fought from Chattanooga to Atlanta, also, a full account of the wonderful march through Georgia and the final surrender of Gen.
Johnston.

Also, Gen. Sherman's testimony in full before the "Committee on the War," in regard to the negotiations with Gen.
Johnston.

Also, no more complete collection of letters written to newspapers on the war, but it is the result of months of diligent labor on the part of the author.

The object is to give in one volume a full account of the Army of the West, under Gen. Sherman, its great fights and long marches.

It contains interesting sketches of the officers and in many cases amusing accounts of their personalities, &c., &c.
